We Are Family! Somos Familia!

Dennis Diengo, Michael Manalang, Luis Rojas, Michael Bayas, Liezl Concepcion, April Orille, Melanie Puno, Teacher Barbara Moodie, Bethony Genovea, Jenny Shader, Andy Ovares and Cathy Shader are one big "School Family."

"Las Familias Escolares" de San Antonio permiten a los estudiantes desarrollar un sentido de comunidad

Jenny Shader es una estudiante del grado ocho que es inteligente, articulada y amistosa. Como muchos jóvenes de su edad, Jenny tiene la responsabilidad de ser una estudiante aplicada y laboriosa en sus clases. Jenny, sin embargo, tiene algo que no tienen la mayor parte de los estudiantes del grado ocho - diez niños.

St. Anthony's "School Families" allows students to build a sense of community

enny Snader is an eighth grade student who is bright, articulate and friendly. Like most kids her age, Jenny has the responsibility of being an attentive and hardworking student in her classes. Jenny, however, has something that most eighth graders don't have - ten children.

Jenny is the "mother" to ten younger classmates who are her "children" in a new venture into cooperative learning at St. Anthony's School. The children's "grandmother" is 3rd grade teacher Mrs. Barbara Moodie. Collectively, this grouping is called a "School Family."

"The School Families Program is a way to build community, as well as to have the older kids interact more with the younger ones, explains Mrs. Moodie, "Instead of sitting by grade levels at lunchtime, special events and gatherings, the children sit with their "families."

The bonds nurtured by the School Families Program can be seen as the younger children enthusiastically hug and hold hands with their "parents," Jenny and Mrs. Moodie. "It's a great idea and it's fun, too," says Jenny as she hugs her "kids."

The School Families Program was a successful idea imported from Southern California when St. Anthony's School's new Principal, Sr. John Ellen Turner, came on board. "Many fun and

Suspect Sought for the Repeated Rape of a Disabled Girl

The police is looking for information leading to the whereabouts of a man suspected of repeatedly raping a disabled teenage girl on the 900 block of Powhattan Avenue, between Nevada and Nebraska Streets, in the southern portion Bernal Heights.

The victim has the mental capabilities of a 6th grader due to cerebral palsy. She was repeatedly taken advantage by a man who was described as initially polite and well mannered by the girl's mother.

The first attack occurred in August when the man offered to take the girl to the store. The girl said that the man threw her onto the trunk of a black Plymouth Valient and forced himself upon her, ignoring her pleas and struggles to have him stop. The girl was raped on four separate occasions by the suspect and her fear of him prevented her from initially telling anyone.

In mid November, the girl complained of pain on her chest. During a medical check up for the pain, the girl and her mother learned that she was pregnant. At this point, the girl explained what had happened and the mother informed the authorities.

The rape suspect is a black male with black hair and brown eyes and is between the age of 20 - 24 years old. The suspect's name is "Omar" and he is believed to have lived in the area of the attacks. Neighbors who have information that can help the police find the rape suspect are urged to call Officer Rey Ibay at 333-3433.

From Peru to Bernal Heights, Little Gabriel Finds a Home

n El Tambo Huancayo, a town in the Andes Mountains of Peru, many of the town's men have lost their lives in the fighting and killing that occurs daily near the infamous "Shining Path." A young mother of this imporverished town worked as a domestic until she damaged her arm and ultimately lost her job. Single and poor, she could no longer support her six children. Good hopes came when she heard of other mothers who were finding a way to ensure the safety and well being of their children: international adoption.

Her second youngest child, Gabriel, is a beautiful brown-eyed boy, not quite two years old. Unable to have children biologically, Craig and Melissa Marshall found their way to Gabriel and gave him a new home in Bernal Heights.

"At first, I was against the idea of adopting - I never experienced it in my family," explains Craig, "It was difficult to come to grips with having adoption as my only choice. Melissa, however, was immediately ready for the idea."

When Melissa was a small child, her mother gave her up for adoption. She doesn't feel any bitterness or burning curiosity to find her birthmother, "It was a difficult decision for her to make and I respect her decision. I know that it's against the current trend right now - for adopted children to seek and find their birthmothers - but I know that she did what she thought was best for me."

Understanding why her own birthmother gave up Melissa enabled the Marshalls to know that taking Gabriel from his own natural mother was something that was for the best for everyone. Craig remembers meeting Gabriel's birthmother in Peru, "She was very quiet and stoic - she kept to herself. I told her that I felt very sad because she had to give up her child, but at the same time I also told her that I was happy that I could her provide for and take care of the child."

When asked how they felt about removing children from their own people and culture, Craig gave an account of the horrible reality of choosing life over death for the children, "There are so

Looking for the "Little Old Lady

in a Gold '67 Mustang"

On Friday, November 22, 1991 at approximately 11:45 a.m. at the intersection of Cortland Avenue and Andover Street, an "Old lady in a gold '67 Mustang" stopped at the 4-way intersection. Behind her, a couple of young men in a large dark blue sedan threw a bottle at her car and harassed her because "They thought that she was going too slow and had no business driving because she was old," as one witness explained.

The two men then got out of their car and continued to verbally attack and harass the woman. Several witnesses saw the bottle thrown and the woman being attacked and immediately came to the rescue. The rescuers told the men harassing the woman to stop. A scuffle between the witnesses and the attackers ensued and escalated when the one of the two harassers pulled something out of the trunk of his car, hiding what was thought to be a weapon under his jacket. One of the witnesses had a cellular phone and dialed 9-1-1. Three police patrol cars responded immediately to the scene. However, the victim had left the scene. "I guess she was pretty scared. I don't blame her." said one of the witnesses.

After searching the attackers for weapons, the officers found none. Open containers of beer were found in the harasser's car. They arrested one of them, who was obviously under the influence of alcohol. However, the other attacker was let go. "Without the victim stepping forward, there's nothing that we can do," said Officer Linda Fontenot, "And whoever she is, she has to tell us quickly before it's too late to do something about this.'

Upon seeing the release of the attackers, the other young men who came to the aid of the woman were disappointed that nothing could be done. They chose not to be identified (in this article), but these young heroes said that they were glad that they could help.

If the "Old lady driving the gold '67 Mustang" is reading this article, she should be assured that many witnesses have enthusiastically cooperated with the police in giving their detailed accounts of the attack. Please call the Ingleside Police Station at 553-1603 and refer to case #911584911.

many children dying in Peru. Hundreds and thousands, mostly from malnutrition and many connected with the fighting between the Communists and the federal government. I believe that Peru feels that they should exodus the children out as fast as possible."

Both of Gabriel's parents feel that his cultural heritage should be kept open, "So when he's old enough to know, he can decide for himself," explains Melissa, "We don't intend to and can't make him a Peruvian living in America, but instead he will be an American with a Peruvian heritage."

"International adoptions are not liked by everyone," explains Janet Craig Marshall, adoptive parent.

Shirley of the Bay Area Adoption Services (BAAS), "But I feel the bottom line is that for the child who is abandoned, or phaned or without a home, this is the best option."

Melissa and Craig discovered BAAS after their frustration with domestic adoption agencies and procedures. Janet, an adoptive parent herself, initially went through the same exhausting domestic route as the Marshall's before she adopted her son, Janet asks her adoptive son, *Miguel, what country are you from?" Miguel enthusiastically replies, "Honduras!"

Miguel, through BAAS. "I was almost 36 and my husband 38 when we tried all our options. The county said to adopt a baby, I would have to be on a non-guaranteed waiting list - and by that time I would be too "old" to adopt!" Janet says. She also didn't want to risk the emotional and financial investment of having the child taken back by its

BAAS has established connections in over 33 countries to provide prospective parents with the most straightforward and fastest of color to be adopted by a white couple, "And for every white child born, there was 20-30 families waiting to adopt him," says Janet. For Janet, like the Marshalls, international adoption became their biggest hope for adopting a child.

Melissa Marshall and her adoptive son, Gabriel, have started a new family in their home on Crescent Avenue.

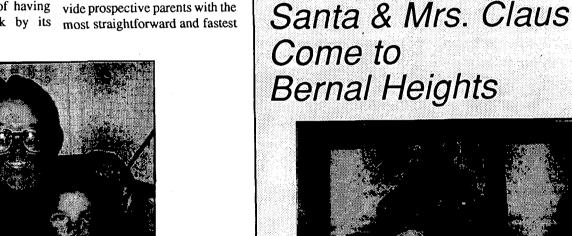

birthmother or father. In California, the natural parents can change their minds within a year and take back their child. Several years ago, social service agencies wouldn't easily allow a child system of adopting a child. "When we went to Peru to adopt Gabriel. the whole process took us only nine days," recalls Melissa, "We've heard of horror stories of other couples who had to wait weeks and months, often times staying in the country with the high costs of hotels and such, going through incredible amounts of red tape to adopt through an orphanage." "Orphanages see the kids in there as the reason for their existence - they're not too eager to give up the kids there. It's like, without crime, there would be no need to have police," rationalizes Craig.

Janet explains that BAAS is able to expedite the international adoption process because of a court procedure called "private relinquishment" where a mother who can no longer support her child is represented by an attorney through BAAS. The attorney will help the mother become legally free of responsibility for the child and make the child available for immediate adoption, instead of having to regulate the child to an orphanage or other state run social agency. The birthmother is also assured that her child will have a greater chance of being adopted through private relinquishment. "This procedure also gives the mother the opportunity to meet the adoptive parents, if she wishes to," explains Janet, "BAAS respects the wishes of the birthmother and encourages the adoptive parents to do the same by remaining in contact with her or not."

Gabriel attends the Little People's Workshop where his teacher, Lupe Mendez speaks Spanish to him daily at his day care program on Cortland Avenue. Gabriel has also picked up English very well and has a remarkable vocabulary for someone who just turned two and has only been in the country for four months. Melissa would like to complete her family with a sister for Gabriel. Reflecting upon her experience she summarizes her feelings, "I believe adoption is great for everybody - we don't need extra children, we need to take better care of the ones we have now. I wish it were easier to adopt in the states. •

Walking the Beat

Having a Safe Holiday

By CPOP Officer Rey Ibay

The holiday season is here. We all know that the majority of disturbances and fights during the holiday celebrations are caused by the presence of the spirit of alcohol. Fights break out easily among guests and family members due the impairment of the mind - courtesy of that good old vodkas, gin or scotch. Time and time again, a simple discussion turns into a heated argument and results into a brawl, and worse, stabbing or shooting. Sometimes the discussion terminates with one or both of the parties involved being terminated - permanently. This holiday season, my wish is that cooler heads, or sober heads, prevail in these situations. But, frankly, speaking, we should remember that getting into a discussion with an intoxicated person is similar to talking to a cold brick wall. These people's minds are so impaired that reason is nonexistent. We can avoid escalating the situation by employing a lot of patience towards these kind of people. Remember, we are celebrating the holidays to enjoy one another.

Because of the number of people getting intoxicated during the holidays, the problem is aggravated when they decide to drive a vehicle. These irresponsible drunk drivers take the streets without regard to the welfare and safety of others - both yours and mine. When they are drunk, their minds are all screwed up. I will not give you a bunch of statistics about the drunk-drivers' victims because, to tell you the truth, it will not make any difference anyway. All I want to do is to emphasize the magnitude of this horrible reality. During this holiday season, whether you are out driving or just walking the streets of Bernal Heights, for God's sake, please be alert and be aware of the fact that the possibility of becoming a victim can be a sudden reality. Be aware that "someone" out there has had too much to drink and may now be in possession of a deadly weapon or in an automobile. This awareness might save us from pain, suffering and grief.

If you drink, please don't drive. If you know somebody has had too much to drink, don't let them drive. If they insist on driving, call the police immediately. They may get upset with you and might think that you are snitching on them. They won't know at the moment that, in reality, you are helping them because you care. Remember, they are drunk and their mind is all screwed up and not functioning right.

With all that in mind, have a safe holiday season.

Miller Memorial Grove Celebration Creates New Life for a Community Garden

Day of the Dead was the theme of a celebration for the rededication of the Miller Memorial Grove community garden at Brewster and Costa streets on Sunday, November 3rd.

The Park and Rec Department and S.L.U.G. sent crews in this summer to rehabilitate the garden, building new walls, terraces, and stairs. Neighbors, led by Don Schaan, gathered for a pot-luck barbecue while discussing other community uses for the park and dividing the garden plots. The rededication was in the name of Roosevelt Miller, who was the oldest member of the East Slope Preservation Committee and a long-time resident, and his son Kelvin.

Since the fiesta rededicating the garden, work has continued at a furious pace. Ann got a load of ground-up-tree mulch from a private contractor, then a gang led by Art and Pete shoveled the ten cubic yards down the steep hillside. Gardeners are looking forward to more hard labor, but will be rewarded with flowers and vegetables in the Spring.

Leer Es Poder Bernal Library Receives Grant for Books in Spanish

By Dorothy Coakley

The Bernal Heights Library has been awarded a $4,000 grant from the California State Library to purchase new books in Spanish. The collection will include cookbooks, child-care materials and perhaps auto repair manuals. In addition, the library has recently purchased a small collection of paperback books in Spanish from La Latina Bookstore which is located on Mission Street at the foot of Cortland Avenue.

Children from bilingual classes at Paul Revere Elementary School and Junipero Serra Elementary School regularily check out Spanish books from the library while on school visits. The Bernal Heights Preschool which is located in the basement of the library serves a population which is 95% Spanish-speaking; these children and their parents attend film programs both Spanish and English given monthly by the library. Precita Center Headstart program brings twenty Spanish-speaking children to the library for stories and films. Parents are always welcome to attend these programs.

Library card applications are available in Spanish and in English. An adult applicant must show proof of address although local residency is not required. Children must have the signature of a parent or guardian to apply for a card. Everyone in the family is encouraged to visit the library and check out our books.

Every Wednesday night is Family Night, with special programs from 7:00 to 9:00 P.M. Our holiday evening on December 11th will feature Grupo Folklorico De San Francisco, a children's folkdance troupe which will perform regional dances of Mexico.

Come meet your neighbors at the library! •

The Origin of Christmas Kettles

In December, 1891, the Salvation Army Captain in San Francisco had resolved to provide a free Christmas dinner to the area's poor persons. But how would he pay for the food?

As he went about his daily tasks, the question stayed on his mind. Suddenly, his thoughts went back to his days as a sailor in Liverpool, England. On the Stage Landing he saw a large pot, called "Simpson's pot" into which charitable donations were thrown by passers-by.

On the next morning, he secured permission from the authorities to place cauldron at the Oakland ferry landing, at the foot of Market Street. No time was lost in securing the pot and placing it in a conspicuous position, so that it could be seen by all those going to and from the ferry boats.

Thus, Captain Joseph McFee launched a tradition that has spread not only throughout the United States, but throughout the world, in such distant lands as Korea, Japan and Chile.

This holiday season marks the 100th Anniversary of the traditional red kettle. Last year, in the United States alone, over 7.5 million people stricken with hunger, homelessness and illness were assisted through funds collected in the kettles. •

Walking Blues

By Jacqueline Elizabeth Letalien

We are now officially at the beginning of the Holiday Season. Macy's has had its Thanksgiving Day Christmas parade to initiate the Advertising Season. This is the time of shopping sprees, credit card magic (making something from nothing) and the changing clocks. These are the secular, material concerns of a society overlaid on what is also a deeply spiritual tradition in our natural cycles.

The harvest is in and winter is coming. We have gathered and now we settle in for the long winter's night. At another time and in another cultural reality, we would begin semi-hybernation and dreaming. In the midst of our meditations come several holidays that can open us to the possibilities of our musings as well as the fragments of our ancient experience. Many of our spiritual traditions converge at this time of year. Winter Solstice, Chanukah, Christmas and Kwanzaa manifest our multi-cultural traditions as pagans, Jews, Christians, African Americans. For one moment we are united by time and similarity of belief.

Within each diverse tradition is a common ground for our aspiration and celebration. These are festivals of light; we illuminate the darkness with candles and tree lights. We have journeyed into days with long nights. Our hopes rise from the midst of our festivals of light with burning flames and twinkling lights to acknowledge the lengthening of the days, a strengthening of our resolve, and an emergence of our transformed selves.

This year's celebrations have a particular poignancy of meaning for our gathering together. We have recently experienced Anita Hill's courage in witnessing the hidden issue of sexual harassment. We have grieved Magic Johnson representing the ignored issue of a widespread plague. Their insights light fires in the hearts of millions who had dwelled in the darkness of denial.

May our traditions and their stories inspire the aspirations of our dreaming nights and enlighten, embolden the work of our waking days. I also hope that the common belief we share in this season of celebration this year will spark a fire that will brighten and lengthen throughout the coming years.

El "Programa de Familias Esolares" es una manera de construir comunidad, así también como facilitar la interacción de los niños mayores con los más ióvenes, explica la Sra. Moodie, "En lugar de agruparse a la hora del almuerzo por sus niveles de grado, o en los eventos especiales y reuniones, los niños se sientan con sus "familias."

Las uniones promovidas por el Programa de las Familias Escolares pueden notarse cuando los niños más jóvenes entusiásticamente abrazan y unen sus manos con sus "padres," Jenny y la Sra. Moodie. "Es una gran idea y es diversión, también," dice Jenny al abrazar a sus "chicos."

El Programa de Familias Escolares fue una idea exitosa importada de California del sur cuando el nuevo Director de la Escuela de San Antonio, Sr. John Ellen Turner, tomó su posición. "Muchas actividades divertidas e instructivas suceden en cada unidad de la "familia," explica Pat Puno, de la Sociedad de Padres de Familia. "Esto provee oportunidad para dirección con los estudiantes mayores y ayuda a los más jóvenes a sentirse parte de toda la familia escolar."

Andy Ovares, del sexto grado, comparte esta opinión del programa, "Es una buena idea porque llegamos a conocernos mejor unos a los otros." Andy vive a sólo dos cuadras de la escuela, en la Avenida Precita. El dice que los programas como "Las Familias Escolares" convierten a San Antonio en una buena escuela. "Mis padres decidieron matricularme" en San Antonio porque es más acogedora y ofrece mejor educación que mi anterior escuela (pública)."

"Hay una excelente proporción de maestros y estudiantes en la escuela, así que los muchachos reciben mucha más atención y se benefician del ambiente orientado en familia aquí," dice Ada Caballero, secre-

taria de la Escuela de San Antonio. Esta escuela Católica educa a 260 niños del área que son ambos, católicos y no-católicos. Ada dice que las escuelas Católicas ofrecen un sólido ambiente de aprendizaje, "Porque hay más control y atención a los muchachos, ellos reciben una mejor educación." Ada orgullosamente apoya este reclamo de excelencia en la educación citando consistentemente altos porcentajes de SAT obtenidos por los estudiantes de la escuela cada año. Una ex-alumna de la escuela ella misma, Ada dice que muchos de los estudiantes actuales son hijos de sus anteriores compañeros.

Con programa innovativos como "Las Familias Escolares" y fuerte consignación de la familia, se comprende porqué la escuela estará celebrando sus centenario en unos pocos años como la Sra. Puno expresa su éxito, "Grandes cosas continúan sucediendo en la Escuela de San Antonio!"

Residente de Bernal Heights Por Casi 40 Años!

Escribe: Carmen Muñoz

En el mes de Abril de 1952, luego de vivir en la ciudad por varios años, mi esposo (ya fallecido) y yo, con nuestros dos hijos y el tercero de "camino," decidimos comprar la casa donde, desde entonces, hemos vivido en este acogedor vecindario. Está por demás decir que en esos años hemos visto muchos cambios, la mayoría de ellos para un mejor, y más seguro, ambiente de vivienda. Recuerdo que cuando nos mudamos aquí, la Avenida Cortland estaba en proceso de restauración, y se eliminaba el ladrillo que la cubría por el macadam moderno que hoy tenemos. Entonces Bernal Heights se mencionaba como "la colina de las cabras," quizás porque en tiempos pasados los residentes se dedicaron a criar esos animales. Pero en realidad nunca hemos tenido problemas muy serios de vandalismo, crimen o drogas, fuera de lo que normalmente se espera en la actualidad. Mis tres hijos asistieron a la Escuela Paul

Revere, y recibieron allí educación apropiada para proseguir luego en sus estudios superiores. Como familia católica, inmediatamente nos registramos en la

Parroquia de San Kevin, y hemos sido, desde esos tiempos, miembros activos de la comunidad, y disfrutado del ambiente de "familia" que ofrece la Parroquia al preocuparse por el bienestar material y espiritual de la congregación. Más adelante, ingresé al Centro de Mayores, y aún pertenezco y presto mis servicios voluntarios a esa noble institución que procura el bienestar de los ciudadanos mayores de Bernal Heights. Mi hogar, la parroquia y el centro han sido lugares especiales para mí, donde me siento "bienvenida" y aceptada.

Todos estos detalles proporcionan un espíritu de paz, tranquilidad, sentido de aceptación y cooperación que son indispensables sobre todo para quienes somos "mayores de 60 años." Me siento muy satisfecha al poder ofrecer alguna ayuda, en cualquier forma, y "sentir" que tengo "mi lugar bajo el cielo" en la comunidad.

Nací en Costa Rica, América Central, y por herencia de mis padres, siento afecto por toda la gente y el deseo de ayudar en lo que me sea posible, material o espiritual. Creo que ese debe ser el lema de vida de todo cristiano, sobretodo en estos tiempos modernos. •

Esta Primavera/Verano Aproveche Reparar Su Casa!

El Programa de Rehabilitación de Vivienda en Bernal Heights (CHRP) está comenzando su doceavo año en Bernal Heights. Financiado por el Mayor's Office of Housing y administrado por la Corporación de Vivienda de Bernal Heights, estamos de nuevo ofreciendo a los residentes de bajos ingresos (Ver hoja adjunta) o Propietarios ancianos de bajos ingresos que vivan en sus casas en otros vecindarios, la oportunidad de reparar sus hogares.

Desde el comienzo de la aplicación hasta el momento de adquirir un préstamo de solo un 3% de interés, incluyendo la supervisión de contratistas y la construcción misma, es una gran oportunidad de resolver toda clase de problemas que se presentan desde las fundaciones hasta el techo de la casa, pisos gastados, pintura, ventanas rotas hasta insulación entre otras cosas.

Más de 90 hogares y apartamentos han sido notablemente mejorados con fondos de aproximadamente $1.188,495.00 millones en los últimos once años.

Si está interesado en obtener mayor información, favor llamar a Mike Noon, Director de Rehabilitación o Stella Loáisiga, su Asistente, al teléfono 206-2140, Lunes a Viernes de 9 a 5.

Urban Forest on the Hill

Volunteers and neighborhood residents gather for a tree planting ceremony on the 100 block of Andover Street near Cortland Avenue.

Friends of the Urban Forest (FUF) and Geo Car Com-'pany planted fifty street trees on Saturday, November 2nd - San Franciso Arbor Day. "Bernal Heights is a very active tree planting community having had numerous FUF plantings in the past," says Clifford Janoff, Executive Director of FUF, "The area has many committed volunteers helping organize their neighborhood and planting trees."

FUF is a non-profit corporation which began as a volunteer organization, planting its first tree on Arbor Day in 1981. Since then, it has become one of the nation's most well-respected citizen's treeplanting groups and has helped plant more than 11,000 trees in San Francisco. Many community groups have developed as a result of FUF's work, having first come together on a street tree planting. For more information about plantings, call Friends of the Urban Forest at 543-5000.

Bernal Hilltop Natural History

Growth Habits of Native Coastal Prairie Plants

By Barbara M. Pitschel

Despite the fact that California's native grasslands do not support trees and other large forms of plant life, they do offer a great variety of plant types. Bernal Hilltop's coastal prairie is a good example.

The dominant form of vegetation is, of course, grasses, which provide primary cover on all parts of the hill except bare rock surfaces. With only one exception (biennial, Bromus carinatus), the native grasses are chiefly perennials. This long lifespan gives them time to develop deep root systems with the ability to reach water throughout the year. Most of the non-native grasses are annuals that die off every summer, leaving a thick mulch of dead biomass that creates microclimates inhospitable to native plants. Other important components of the native flora are herbaceous plants. Many of the native wildflowers of the coastal prairie are perennials, a habit that is well-suited to our climate. These include early spring, late spring, and summer bloomers. There are also some small flowering annuals that seed themselves in dense colonies in the spring (like goldfields, Lasthenia chrysostoma).

Another important group of herbaceous native plants on our hill is the bulbs, which include some beautiful spring- and summer-blooming members of the lily, amaryllis, onion, and iris families. Despite the excessive ravages of pocket gophers, who consider them special delicacies, our bulb populations have managed to survive.

Native vines - climbing and trailing plants - are herbs (native morning glory) or subshrubs (Lotus scoparius). In addition to being beautiful, these serve an important erosion control function.

As you can see, the predominant native vegetation consists of low-growing plants. One reason for this, of course, is that such plants are best adapted to survive desiccation (drying out) caused by the seasonal winds and drought that are natural conditions on exposed hilltops in San Francisco.

Native trees are virtually nonexistent and shrubs are uncommon. The only native tree on Bernal Hilltop is probably the elderberry (Sambucus cerulea) at the top of Folsom Street below the Boulevard on the north side of the hill. It is in a wetland area, which explains its presence. The pines and cypresses, are not native to San Francisco, and the lone madrone was probably also introduced. To feel the effect of trees on the microhabitats, stand under a Monterey pine on a foggy day. The ground is thoroughly wet and you think it is raining. In addition to the water that is dripping, resins are also falling. You can probably imagine that the microclimate under such trees, which actually records annual rainfall far above the actual rainfall for the area, is inhospitable to native plants with their adaptations for survival in drought and wind.

To become more familiar with the flora and ecology of the hilltop, please join us at preservation/ restoration work parties at 11:00 a.m. on the third Sunday of each month. For further information call me at 282-5066.

School Families...

Eighth grader Jenny Shrader enjoys being a "Mom" at St. Anthony's School.

learning activities happen in each "family" unit," explains Pat Puno of the Parents Club Guild, "This provides opportunity for leadership with the older students and helps the younger ones feel a part of the whole school family.'

Sixth grader Andy Ovares shares his opinion of the program, "It's a good idea because you get to know each other more." Andy lives only two blocks away from the school on Precita Avenue. He says that programs like "School Families" make St. Anthony's a good school, "My parents decided to put me in St. Anthony's because it's more friendly and offers better education than my old (public) school."

"There's an excellent teacher to student ratio at the school, so the kids get a lot more attention and benefit from the family oriented feeling here," says Ada Caballero, secretary for St. Anthony's School. The Catholic school serves 260 children from the area who are both Catholic and non-Catholic. Nearly half of the children receive tuition scholarships from the school.

Ada says that Catholic schools offer a solid learning environment, "Because there is more control of and attention to the kids, they get a better education." Ada proudly supports this claim to education excellence by stating consistently high SAT scores produced by the school's students each year. An alumni of the school herself, Ada says that many of the students now attending are the children of her former classmates.

With innovative programs like

'School Families" and strong family commitment, the school continues its educational excellence. Still standing at its original location since 1894, the school will be celebrating its centennial in only a few years. Mrs. Puno sums up the school's success, "Great things continue to happen at St. Anthony's School!".

Just Having fun!

Elizabeth Castillo started work late August 1991 as a cashier for the Chevron Corporation. She says, "Work is fun, I like finding solutions to things and helping customers. I get a feeling of accomplishment and can identify with customers that return."

Her advise to her peers is that, "Work will not come to you, you'll have to look for it. Show confidence even if you didn't do well in school because work is different from school.'

S.L.U.G.s and Seniors Making Things Grow

Coleridge Resident "Home for the Holidays"

Rose Spiller, award recipient

Annual program provides free airline tickets for the city's elderly

Coleridge Park Homes resident, Rose Spiller, was awarded a free airline ticket from SouthWest Airlines, "Home for the Holidays" program. In conjunction with the Department of Social Services Volunteer Program, the program provides a free roundtrip ticket to any of the locations that South-West flies to.

Rose found out about the opportunity for the free tickets through the Bernal Heights Senior Program, which receives an invitation each year from the "Home for the Holidays" program to assist seniors on a low or fixed income to apply for the award. The program's goal is to reunite senior citizens with relatives that they have not seen due to the lack of financial resources to fly home. The Bernal Heights Senior Program called June Keith at Coleridge Park Homes, an affordable housing development for senior citizens and disabled persons. June recommended Rose, knowing that Rose wanted very much to visit her cousin. "Rose is such a nice, giving person who helps out a lot here at Coleridge, as well as doing volunteer work at convalescent homes in the city," says June, "I'm glad she won the tickets - she deserves them.

Rose will visit her cousin in Las Vegas during the holiday season this year. "I've been wanting to visit my cousin very much, but just couldn't afford to fly there," says Rose, "We were so close when she use to live up here. I miss her very much." •

Bernal Heights Senior Program receives $12,500 grant award to develop community garden

For the last two years, Senior Program participants creatively used their limited resources to create a charming little flower and vegetable garden in the patio area of the Bernal Heights Neighborhood Center, using old milk crates and salvaged construction lumber as planter boxes. SLUG learned of the garden through their volunteers working with the seniors and invited the Senior Program to submit their ideas for a community garden which would be incorporated on SLUG's 1992 Community Development Block Grant proposal.

Preliminary plans for the community garden include redwood planter boxes, a trellis, deck and picnic tables. The Senior Program will maintain this community garden which will welcome neighbors to enjoy a quiet, peaceful green space. Vegetables and flowers will be planted with the help and guidance of SLUG and community volunteers.

The Senior Program hopes to attract more seniors who lack access to a garden because of cramped apartments, board & care homes or rented rooms. The garden will also be accessible to frail or wheel-chair bound seniors, as the planter boxes will be raised and will not require extensive bending. Those interested in helping to plan and develop the garden are invited to the project's first community meeting on Thursday, December 5th at 11:00 a.m. at the Neighborhood Center, 515 Cortland Avenue. Call 206-2145 for more information. - Vicki Victoria

Taking advantage of San Francisco's Indian Summer, Bernal Heights Senior Program participants (from the left) Rosie Tom, Alfredo Damoan, Garden Coordinator Xky Dixon, Anna Diffut and Emma Martinez tend to their patio garden on a sunny November morning.

Stark before and after photographs of this Folsom Street home display the work of the Rehab Program in the neighborhood. This residence's stairway (above) had greatly deteriorated and posed a severe safety hazard and had to be demolished. Thanks to the Rehab Program, it (below) is now a handsome as well as safe addition to the home.
